Center Named for Dr. Reng

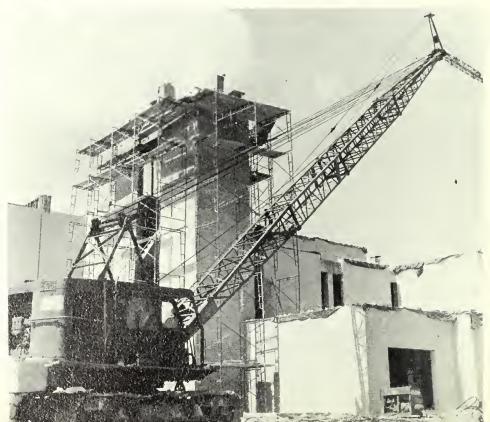

To the student body of Arkansas State, the huge structure in the center of the campus, this massive. ever-growing symbol of solid and progressive thinking is still only a dream. But to one man, whose name will so appropriately grace this newest achievement, it has existed, if only as an idea, for years. Soon, thousands of students will again arrive, register, and begin to meet new and remember old friends, and will start a new year. But there will be one marked difference. Arkansas State will have put on a new and beautiful face, thanks to this man.

A FAMILIAR SIGHT EARLY THIS YEAR, the old archway which greeted A-State visitors fell victim to jackhammers.

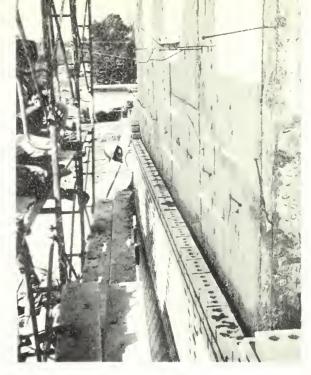

ALMOST A LANDMARK in itself, this gigantic crane seems to be the most valuable single item to the workers, who used it in almost every facet of the building operation.

Within this towering shell will soon be housed the most modern combination of recreation facilities, relaxing areas, and offices in the state for the use of college students—The Carl R. Reng Center.

Tons of white brick and mortar are used and portions of the building begin to show a bright new look, as opposed to the drab reinforcing material underneath.

Dr. Carl R. Reng President of Arkansas State

Since becoming President in 1951, Dr. Reng has compiled a most impressive record for the school and himself. A holder of four degrees, B.A., M.S., EdD., and LL.D., he has headed A-State's far-sighted construction plan, and has been directly responsible for its success.

Under a broiling sun, workmen pour the west loading zone.

SWING SOUNDS or smoother music, whichever you prefer, flows from the instruments of Bill Bell and the Tribe, a campus dance band which performs for several A-State and local area social events.

Arkansas State-A Bright New World of

College life is a freedom of spirit and a strong lust for living which drives students at a whirl-wind pace. It is evident when work on a Homecoming display lasts all night in the rain, when pages of books are devoured before finals; and you can see it when a group stands on a wind-blown street corner collecting money as a philanthropic service. Life at A-State is a bright crisp world with the sounds of bands playing, and cheering, of horns and bells and laughter and crying. It is a colorful world of autumn shades: red and gold, of Christmas, of sports, or work and spring formals. Whether at study or at play, Arkansas State is a bright new world of sound and color.

A COUPLE sit placidly under the shade of a familiar campus tree watching student life flow on. College has always been a great instrument in fostering human relations.

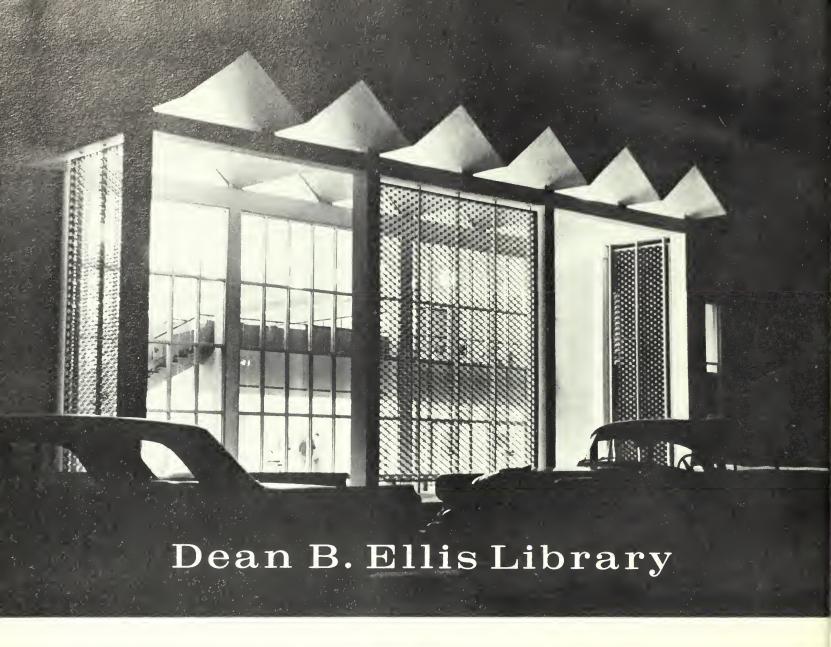

PERSONALITIES BLEND with the red, green and blue hues of a reception where everyone is free to shuffle through a scrapbook, return to the punch bowl or discuss the topic of the day.

Sound and Color

SWINGING SOUNDS of '64 came to A-State with Peter, Paul, and Mary, popular folk singers, who have appeared in hundreds of college auditoriums throughout the nation.

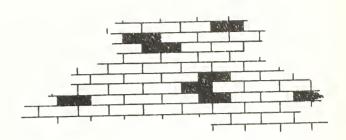

The long-awaited new library, costing well over a million dollars, is now a reality. It bears the name of Dean B. Ellis. 36 years an excellent math instructor at Arkansas State. For those who for years studied in the old library, it is an incomprehensible luxury; for those who will soon be with us for the first time, it will be something more expected than appreciated. To those of us who watched it grow, it will remain one of the brightest spots in our college careers, as we have cultivated an almost parental concern for each new surge of growth at A-State.

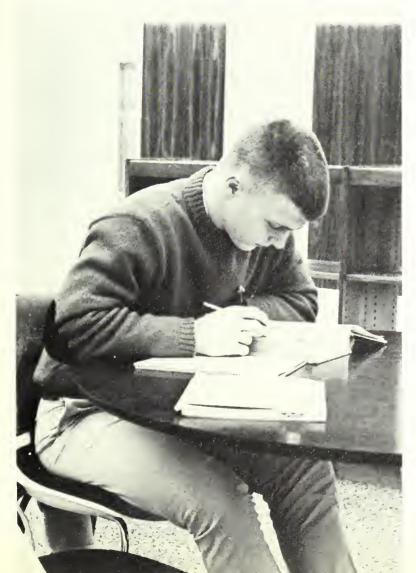

DEAN B. ELLIS, associate professor of mathematics at Arkansas State, relaxes in one of the comfortable lounge chairs in the front portion of the library named in his honor.

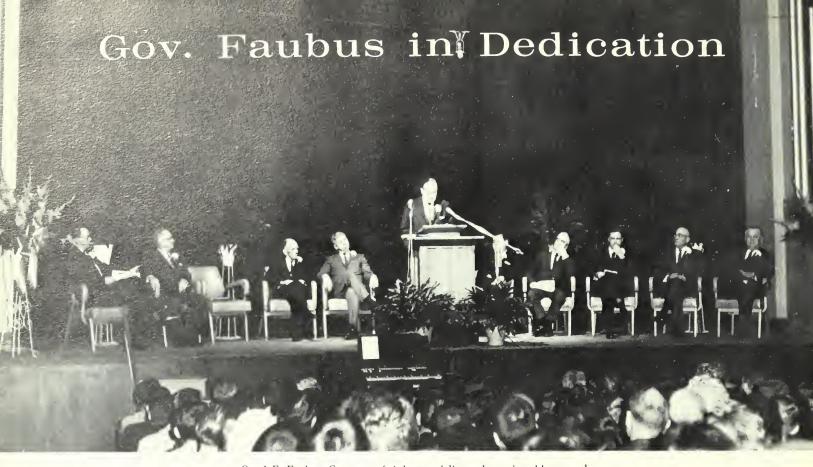

EASY REFERENCE to any particular section of the library can be obtained by new patrons and visitors at the entrance panel.

ASIDE from being a storehouse of thousands of books. Ellis Library serves as the study hub of the campus as students gather there to prepare their assignments.

Orval E. Faubus, Governor of Arkansas delivers the main address at the formal dedication ceremonies in Wilson auditorium.

Library Is Dedicated

Dean B. Ellis at the podium.

It had been sprinkling lightly all morning, but spirits remained undampened as the crowd from Jonesboro and all over Arkansas gathered to hear the word which would formally open the new Dean B. Ellis Library to the public. Arkansas State's Board of Trustees sat proudly as they watched first the man to whom all the day's honors were directed speak an impressive, moving response, and then the Governor of the State add his praises to this man. There was a strange, almost audible stillness while Mr. Dean B. Ellis was talking, as though the audience was very much aware of why this man so well deserved such a high honor. His devotion to education was apparent to all those present who had not already had a close personal knowledge of his desire to boost this institution constantly higher in the eyes of the people. Students who have had this contact in his classes know how much he requires of those who are given the opportunity to build themselves—and Arkansas State.

President Carl R. Reng and Governor Faubus relax before the ribbon-cutting ceremony

Then it was off to the new library for the ceremony-the cutting of the ribbon by the Governor, signifying that the way was now open for a new opportunity for A-State Students to reap the benefits of a large, well-equipped and very modern library—the festive reception inside, where out-oftown visitors were given a personalized tour by beaming officials of the staff, who would now be able to work in pleasant, air-conditioned surroundings - and finally, later that night, a political forum sponsored by the Young Democrats Club featuring Governor Faubus. State Supreme Court Justice Jim Johnson, and Commissioner of Revenues Orval Cheney in discussion of state government. to which all the guests and students were invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis look on as the Governor clips the ribbon draped across the shiny new doors.

Next, a warm reception inside for those who came to see it happen.

Journalists Find New Home

To many students and faculty, the new building project behind the Education Building which looked like a standard facelift didn't mean much—until! Until one Friday there were eight columns of "State College Herald" to spill coffee on again, instead of five. The announcement at the first of the year that, due to the remodeling, the paper would have to be small had not hurt, but when the Fatal Friday of the First Small Sheet rolled around, there were unmistakable groans—"Where's my story?", "What, no Campus Ups and Downs this Week?", and so on. When finally the construction had ended, and the usual snappy-looking, First Class rated eight columns appeared once again, they were met with real appreciation, as was the work of the builders. But no one will guess who appreciates all this the most.

L. W. "TEX" PLUNKETT, head of the Department of Radio, Journalism and Printing, stands beside the almost completed Journalism Building, which now houses all printing and journalism classes, as well as the huge, newly improved printing plant.

Politicians Blossom in Spring Elections

It's been a woman's world since a girl !!! was elected SGA president in the spring of '63—a definite first on our campus. The coalitions again tried to keep their plans secret, and again the secrets leaked out. An independent gave the Greeks some trouble and caused a run-off between the top two presidential candidates. Having the election immediately after Easter presented campaign problems, but there wasn't much mud-slinging and no riots to speak of at the dances.

CANDIDATES FOR THE TOP Student Government offices meet before the run-off election. From the left are: Sharon Craft, Candidate for Second Vice President; Earlaine Young and Nick Wilson, seeking the Presidency; and Mike Dungan, after First Vice.

AFTER A HECTIC DAY of voting, the polls begin to show the effects of the frantic scramble of the politicians, who are everywhere after the vote.

WITH ELECTION DAY ALMOST GONE, the weary office seekers gather around the polling place to speculate their party's chances when the votes are tallied and the results given later in the day.

VARIOUS GIMMICKS ARE TRIED to influence the student vote. Here an A-State Skydiver plunged from the heavens to cast his ballot for his candidate.

TO THE VICTOR goes the ensuing jubilation of winning. This celebration was especially gay as the first female was voted into the SGA Presidency.

ASIDE FROM THE DISCUSSION portion of the Leadership Retreat student leaders find a number of recreational activities available to them at Walcott State Park.

DEAN MOORE, under whom the annual gathering of the student leaders at Arkansas State originated, serves as moderator of the weekend event.

Reng Airs Future at Leader Retreat

Walcott, look out! Here they come again. Every year leaders from campus organizations gather with administrative officials for a weekend retreat. Guest speakers—this past year Dean Love of Ole Miss—make students realize that the current questions on this campus are not unique. Dr. Reng used the 1963 retreat to reveal in full for the first time A-State's building projects. But a student brings back to campus memories that have nothing to do with meetings—singing at the lake wrapped in blankets, seeing Dean Moore, Miss Stroud and Mr. Denny on KP, and tossing the SGA president into the lake—even if she is a she.

LEISURE MOMENTS give everyone attending the leadership conference a chance to clown around.

NOT EVERYONE is adept at every sport and often a time for relaxation is needed. If this is the situation the proper thing to do is to find the nearest shade tree and observe.

Graduation Culminates Years of Work

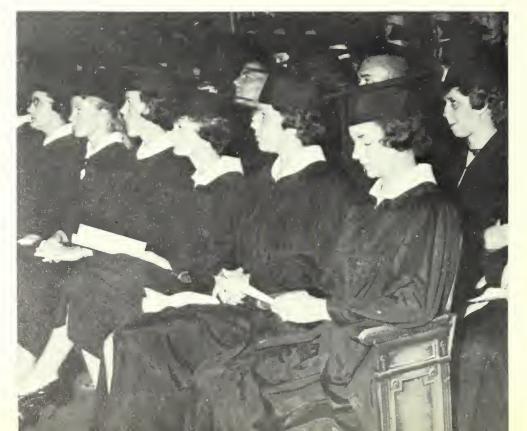

Black robes in a sea of faces—solemnity—a time of fulfillment, yet a time of promise. Graduation was impressive to those who watched, but it made a deeper impression on those who walked forward to receive a piece of paper. This ceremony symbolized those four character-molding and personality-forming years which had comprised the life of a college undergraduate. A few moments on stage, a quick handclasp—then those who had walked forward walked away—away from coffee in the Wigwam and the same old people—and hopefully toward uncertainty.

PROUD PARENTS mingle among the happy graduates after the ceremony to share their mutual joy and to offer their congratulations on the attainment of a goal.

GRADUATES LISTEN intently to the speaker, stopping occasionally to check their program for the sequence of the baccalaureate service.

THAT LONG AWAITED MOMENT arrives for the graduating senior as he advances upon the stage and accepts the diploma from Dr. Carl Reng, President of Arkansas State.

SPRING GRADUATES leave the baccalaureate service to discuss the program and to anticipate the principle ceremony—the awarding of diplomas.

DR, N. D. HAZELBAKER, Vice President of the College, addresses the graduating seniors and the guests in attendance, $\,$

SENIORS FORM A LINE and move forward to accept their diplomas from Dr. Reug. The transition from college life now begins for the graduate.

Registration Lines Form at the Rear

"But sir, I just have to have underwater basketweaving to graduate. You've gotta open that course." "Son. you can't switch your major from art to P.E. in the middle of your senior year." Sound like conversation in a home for unwanted lunatics? Right, only around here we call it registration. It's chaotic bedlam at best and indescribable at worst. Students stand in line for hours, then have their pictures made. Instructors drink gallons of coffee and watch their hair fall out. Yet out of all this comes order—of a sort. Usually students end up in classes with instructors. Usually.

IDENTIFICATION CARDS REQUIRE a photograph of the student. Taken slumped in a chair after paying registration fees, the pictures leave much desired.

STITUENT REGISTRATION PROBLEMS are ironed out during the sessions by faculty advisers. But when an administrative decision is to be made concerning the scheduling of classes, the difficulty is brought to the attention of Robert Moore, Dean of Students.

FRESHMAN AND SOPHOMORE MEN parade over to the armory on registering to check out equipment for the upcoming ROTC drill periods.

AT THE END OF THE LINE and after completing the scheduling process, there is that cash payment which makes registration official. College is expensive but the benefits come later.

TO ACQUAINT THE FRESHMEN with the college and with the other members of their class, an informal picnic is staged during orientation week.

FRESHMAN TESTS are given throughout the summer to relieve orientation from the bulk of the examinations.

ANOTHER ACTIVITY for the freshmen during orientation week is the street dance, sponsored by the Jonesboro Chamber of Commerce and Jonesboro businesses.

JONESBORO BUSINESSES supply the street dance with numerous gifts to be given away at a drawing at the dance. Dean Moore does the calling.

Class Size Prompts Orientation Split

A new idea with the old problem of freshman orientation was presented to the A-State campus this year. With Dean Moore at the helm, a plan was formulated for dividing the freshmen into fourteen groups for greater concentration. Fourteen programs were prepared by the departments, the administration and the SGA. Then by rotation the programs were presented to each group. The SGA program seemed to be the favorite—probably because it lasted only fifteen minutes instead of an hour.

INTRODUCTIONS were the order of the day at the Freshman picnic. Members of the class of '67 wasted no time in making new acquaintances of their collegiate classmates.

STRAINS OF "DIXIE" resounded through Wilson auditorium as those freshmen who were caught during orientation not wearing their beanies entertained their classmates.

Freshmen, Seniors Feted

Most A-State students get to meet President Reng at least twice during their college careers—at the annual freshman and senior receptions. During the first week of orientation, awed freshmen pass along a receiving line to shake hands with Dr. Reng and then mingle with faculty members. A few weeks later seniors pass between formal guards and through the doors of the President's home to go through a receiving line. Then they, too, mingle with the faculty, greeting teachers they had in past years and being nice to those they have this year. Perhaps they remember just for a minute how they felt a few years past . . .

FRESHMEN GET TREATED to the punch and cookies of their first college reception. The freshmen meet the faculty and later attend the dance for them on the patio of University Hall.

SENIORS ARE WELCOMED to the home of Dr. Reng in Jonesboro. Earlaine Young, Senior President of the Student Government Association, greets the students and faculty who attend.

THE RECEIVING LINE at the freshman reception offers every member of that class the opportunity to meet the most influential people on the A-State campus. The line includes members of the administration and student leaders.

DR. VANCE, professor of education, adds the feminine touch to the arrangement of the boutonniere on the jacket of Dale Wyatt before the President's Reception.

A BEAUTIFUL TABLE SETTING enhances the atmosphere of the senior President's Reception, Ed Dickson and Warren Dupwe partake of the setting, Acres of chicken wire stuffed with napkins, a dance in the gym to the rhythm of Willie Mitchell's combo, a white corsage trimmed in red and black, a cheering crowd, a game, the crowning of a queen. It was a unique week—one in which dungarees and sweatshirts were typical collegiate attire, classes were superseded by the all-important task of display construction, and alumni returned en masse for a yearly pilgrimage to the Alma Mater. Feelings which range from nostalgic recollection to frustration to exhilaration. These form, for the record, memories of Homecoming 1963.

AN ECSTATIC CANDIDATE, in this case it is Pat Warneke, learns she has been selected by the student body to reign as Homecoming Queen.

THE ROYALTY takes their station to view the game. They are, from the left: Jana Helms, Sally Lynn Dennis, Queen Pat Warneke, Peggy Hunter and Naney Snipes.

MEMBERS OF THE STUDENT BODY vote for their choice from the group of five coeds who were screened from a list submitted by campus organizations.

TO BOOST THE INDIANS TO VICTORY, freshman men beat the Tribal war drum in shifts all night and up until gametime Homecoming day.

Gaiety Focuses on Queen Pat

Once upon a blustery but sunny day last November a week of intensive work, worry, fun and frustration came to an end as Indian football fans gathered at Kays Field for a special celebration—Homecoming 1963. The rhythmic strains of "Cherokee," a horse and rider in full Indian regalia, enthusiastic players and spectators, and outstanding performances by the band and drill team all contributed to the spirited success of the day, Queen Pat Warneke and her four attendants were honored at a pre-game ceremony, and special tribute was paid to the A-State graduating class of 1913.

CHIEF BIG TRACK III stayed in the saddle most of the afternoon, circling the track after each Indian touchdown. Between rides, however, Murray tallied, finally winning.

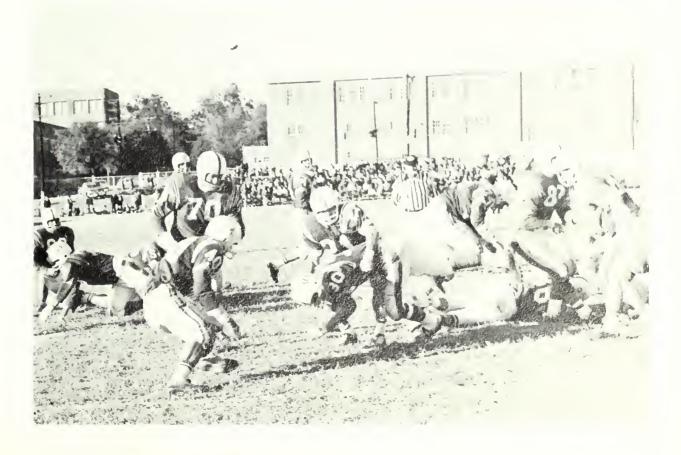

ARKANSAS STATE'S Homecoming royalty pose before the crowd of alumni, football fans and students before the game with Murray begins.

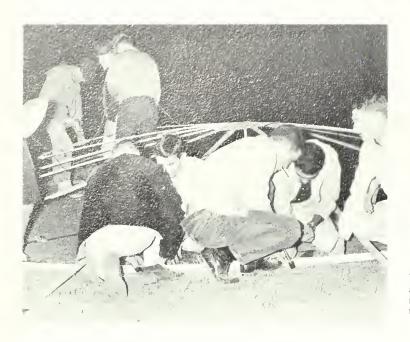

AGAIN MEETING THE STANDARD which the marching Indian Band has set in previous Homecoming performances, the A-State band presented an outstanding show.

MURRAY AND THE INDIANS provided just what the Homecoming crowd wanted—exciting football action. The contest was loaded with passing, long runs, touchdowns and plain hard hitting.

Displays Finished Despite Yearly Rain

Imagination and originality were the key words during Homecoming Week as campus organizations vied for prizes in display competition. Winning displays symbolized the variety that was typical—from Lambda Chi Alpha's "Bomb the Thoroughbreds" theme, to the Alpha Gam "Give 'Em Prell" entry to Chi Alpha's slogan of "Corral the Thoroughbreds." All contestants, however, were united in their loyalty to the Indian football team. From blueprint to finished product energy never lagged, in spite of rain, and Aggie Road was once again lined on the day of the Game with decorative displays, contributing their part to a successful Homecoming.

WORK ON THE DISPLAYS requires the attention of almost every member of the group sponsoring it. The last minute rush to meet the deadline often reaches far into the night or early morning.

MORAL SUPPORT from the females makes display building more enjoyable if somewhat less active until the girls go in and the work begins in earnest.

"PUSH 'EM BACK" was the theme of the second place winning display of the Cherokee Men's Council. A moving caterpillar and a reluctant thoroughbred.

BALLOONS ARRANGED TO GIVE A BUBBLE EFFECT were the novelty feature of the Alpha Gamma Delta entry in the display competition.

AIRBORNE INDIAN JOE circles over the Lambda Chi Upha first place winning display, dropping smoke bombs on the hapless Thoroughbred which also circled the colorful green and white structure.

Although the actual Homecoming festivities were commenced by the slow, monotonous thud of an over-beaten Indian tom-tom, they were ended in a wild frenzy accentuated by the Willie Mitchell floor show. Since its introduction on campus, this band has been enough to compel even the most ardent suitcase-packer to stay and "dog" to its sounds. The freshmen were again in charge of decorating, and some of them did... if they weren't beating that "#$% thudding drum! Pent up by the pressures of the hectic week, emotions sought an outlet... and found it in the pulsing beat of the music and rhythm of the dance.

POSTGAME ACTIVITIES included a dance for students and alumni, featuring the music of popular Willie Mitchell and the Four Kings.

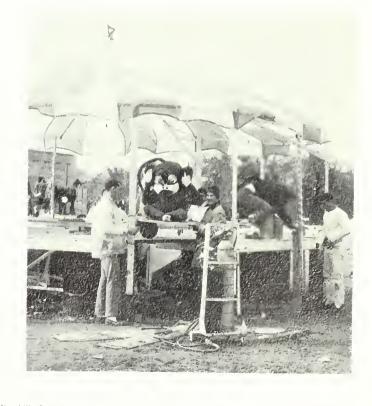

CHI OMEGA MEMBERS survey the damage done to their stationary display which was hit hard by the wind and rain's annual attack on construction the night before the deadline.

STATIONARY DISPLAYS, like this one by the Baptist Student Center, used a variety of theme ideas from the latest joke fads to comic characters.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON created a large scale music box featuring the see-hear-speak no evil monkeys in a pledge to "Do Evil to the Racers,"

OVER AT LAST! With Homecoming over for another year, everyone relaxes with but one responsibility left: that of tearing down the old display and begin to think about next year's entry.

BILL BELL'S COMBO swings to the pleasure of the judges. The noted A-State musician and his group performed well enough to merit third place in the talent show.

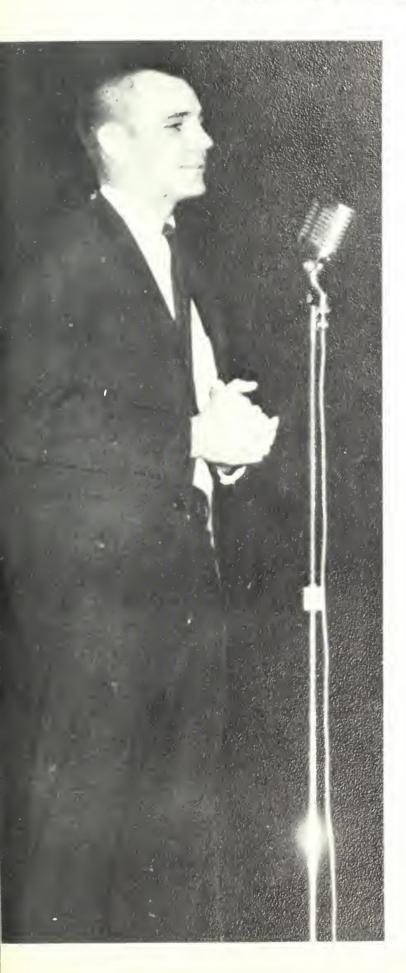

STAND-UP COMEDY proved to be the overall winner as Larry Miller and Tommy Thompson, sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, garnered first place in the contest.

MEMBERS OF TAU KAPPA EPSILON entered the second of the two combos in the show. The Tekes rocked with jazz and an original selection by Howard Dunn, right.

Pike Comedians Sweep Talent Award

The dual masque of tragi-humor was turned on its light side when Larry Miller and Tommy Thompson, a two-man comedy team, took first-place honors in last fall's Alpha Gam talent show. A number of acts were selected from the show this year to compete in the MidSouth Fair Talent Contest in Memphis. Sigma Phi Epsilon and Chi Omega captured second and third-place trophies respectively with entertainment which varied from such musical promises as "TH Buy You Violets For Your Furs" to an imaginary train trip expressed through the rhythmic strains of "Sentimental Journey."

CHI OMEGA sponsored the third place act in their female trio composed of Nancy Manney, Bettye Holland and Sally Dennis. The group sang "Sentimental Journey" and one other selection.

"CAP'N CUSTER meet Cap'n Sittin' Bull," said Larry Miller in his spoof of the toss of a coin at a football game. Miller's humor netted first place in the Alpha Gam activity.

STARK TERROR is portrayed in the "Mousetrap" by Becky Hickox of the Arrowhead Players as she discovers a murder has been committed in her London guest house. The play was presented in the excellent mystery style of the author, Agatha Christic.

Variety Spices Campus Theater Life

A Pulitzer Prize play, a whodunit and fairy tales for young and old formed the basis for A-State's drama season. Thornton Wilder's prize-winning "Skin of Onr Teeth" boasted A-State's first flying scenery and a plot that can only be described as far out. "The Monsetrap" by Agatha Christie had most of the audience baffled as the killer struck again and again. "Beanty and the Beast," premiere production of the Children's Theater, delighted the grown-ups as well as children, although the adults had a fairy tale written especially for them by Shakespeare—"A Midsummer Night's Dream."

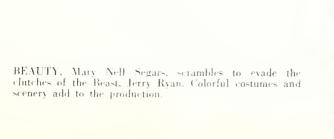

QUITE OPPOSITE their earlier mystery presentation, the Arrowhead Players presented "Beauty and the Beast" to the delight of the children and adults from the Jonesboro area who attended.

UPON FINDING THE ACTUAL PERSON behind the murder plots from the long list of suspects, the accused turns on the proprietor of the guest house as other members of the group witness the attack.

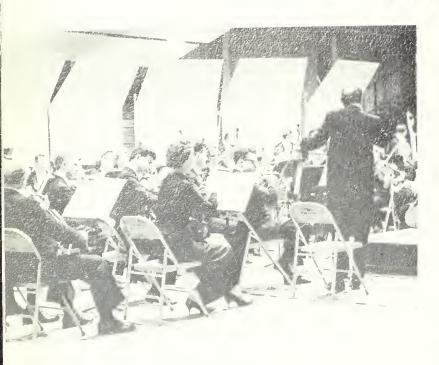

THORNTON WILDER'S PLAY "The Skin of Our Teeth" was the first presentation of the Arkansas State theater group during the 1963-64 college year.

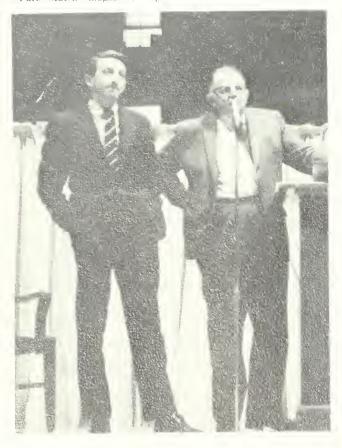

Lecture, Concert in Arts Presentation

The clipped Oxford-acquired accent of a French journalist has little in common with the soothing strains of a violin in a Philharmonic Orchestra, yet both of these are integral parts of a Lecture-Concert series newly formed this past year under College sponsorship. Osmotic culture or no, tales of a narrow escape from Red China among the folds and bolts of French textiles was vicarious adventure at its finest; and a sea which changed moods at the slightest gesture from the expressive hands of an orchestra conductor provided, to say the least, an outlet for imagination.

PREPARATION FOR A CONCERT involves a careful tuning of each individual instrument to insure the absolute best performance from the instrument.

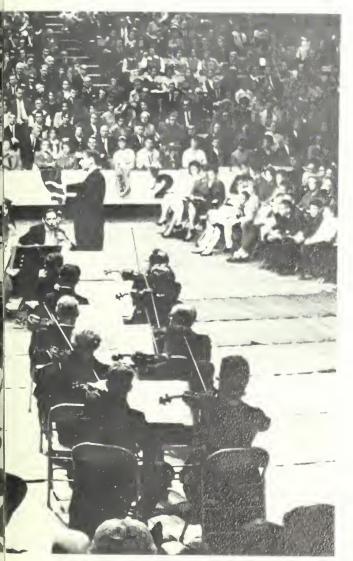

QUESTIONS WERE RELAYED from the andience to be answered informally by the noted French journalist and editor of "Paris Match" magazine, Serge Lentz.

MR. LENTZ, who recently returned from Communist China, chose the Red satellite country as the topic of his speech. Disguised as a textile merchant, Mr. Lentz made a comprehensive study of life there and is lecturing around the free world.

WITHOUT A MUSICAL SCORE to follow and with the grace of a dancer, Werner Torkanowsky conducted his orchestra to a dazzling performance at A-State.

A-STATE'S FIELDHOUSE, usually the scene of heated basketball action, was filled to near capacity for the performance of the New Orleans Philharmonic.

CHRISTMAS AT A STATE brings visions of the Jonesboro Christmas Parade to the many students who take part in it. Among these participants are the ROTC unit, the marching Indian Band, Homecoming royalty and Miss Jonesboro, also an ASC coed.

BILL BELL and his Tribe of musicians provided the music at the St. Nick dance which is sponsored each Christmas by the Associated Women Students at A-State.

BECKY BRIDGES, President of the Associated Women Students, congratulates Don Reaves and his date, Mary Jane Droke after Don had been named St. Nick at the AWS St. Nick Dance.

IT WOULDN'T BE CHRISTMAS WITHOUT CAROLS, and the old favorites are dusted off each holiday season and rendered as vigorously—as ever by hundreds of students with the Yuletide spirit.

Myriad of Activity in Yuletide Season

Christmas, to an A-State student, is a myriad of things—an inexhaustible source of feelings, experiences, activities. It is the jollity of the St. Nick Dance where royalty are selected to reign over the season's festivities. It is the gaiety of dormitory and organizational parties and Greek dances. Christmas is the pageantry of a holiday parade downtown, the exhilaration of a Yule basketball tournament, the magical beauty of music at a Christmas Choral Concert, Finally, it is "good will toward men" as expressed through the unselfish spirit of a White Christmas program in Wilson Auditorium.

MARCHING CHARACTERS, created of papier mache by the Fine Arts Department, cause lots of excitement among Jonesboro's younger set at'the Christmas parade.

ALPHA OMICRON PI, clad in rose Peau de Soie formals captured the sorority division trophy with their presentation of "H's a Grand Night for Singing" and a more serious number, "Oh My Love."

Greeks Vie for Song Title

Though each group sang a light song and a serious number, there was still ample room for variety in the annual AOPi Songfest this year. Selections ranged from religious hymns to patriotic numbers to Broadway musicals and songs from the high seas as all nine Greek organizations appeared in top form. This spring Lambda Chi captured first place honors for the fourth consecutive year, and AOPi succeeded Alpha Gam as holder of the winning trophy in the sorority division. An all-Greek choir, composed of members from each competing group, premiered this year in the evening's Grand Finale.

THE BROTHER-SISTER TEAM of Ann and John Erwin congratulate each other as AOPi president Ann Parker announces the winner, Ann directed the AOPi's and John the Lambda Chi's

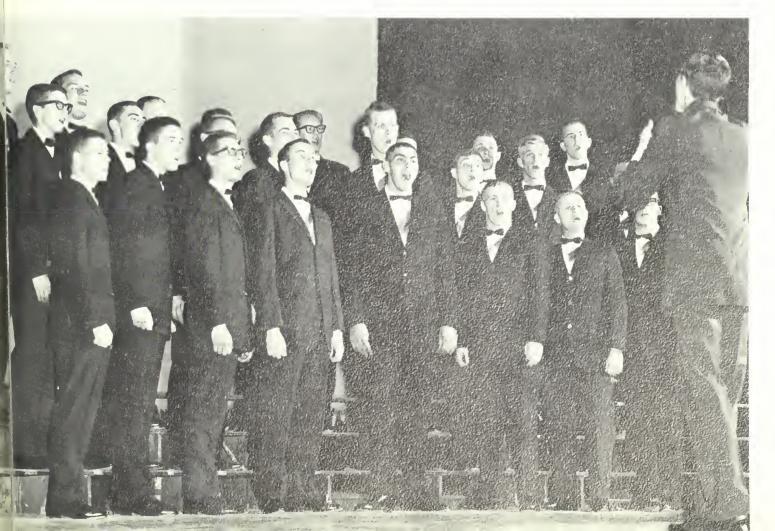

JOHN ERWIN directs the Lambda Chi voices to first place in the fraternity division of the Songfest with the Negro spiritual "Ride that Chariot" and "Ava Maria."

RADIO BROADCASTERS work behind stage at the event. The Songfest, of wide popular interest, was carried over one of the local radio stations.

 $\overline{\rm MOST}$ GROUPS make use of piano accompaniment to enhance the quality of their presentations.

RUSHEES HEAR the virtues of each sorority related to them freely during rush week.

INFORMAL CONVERSATION is an important tool in each fraternity's rush program.

THAT WAKM WELCOME from the sorority to the rushee is extended repeatedly during rush week.

ALUMNUS BOB HARRELSON returned to his Alma Mater to address the Lambda Chi Alpha rush party.

Greek Pace Quickens in Rush Flurry

THE GIRLS GET INTO THE ACT TOO as Nancy Galloway, sweetheart of Sigma Phi Epsilon speaks.

THE AOPI TWINS, Doris and Delores Robinson do a skit to entertain the rushees at their sorority's party.

Rush is the lifeline of Greek organizations. The flow is constant throughout the semester, but it is intensified during two very special weeks. These weeks are designated by the participants as "Rush Weeks," and they truly are. The girls visit, impress and try to persuade the future pledges and then try desperately not to break one of the many rush rules set up by Panhellenic. The boys, not as limited with their rushing as the girls, apply an extra measure of pressure during these weeks. The girls bubble or cry through three nights of parties, while the fraternity men gorge themselves and stuff prospective pledges at only one party.

A HAWAHAN THEME ACCENTED the rush presentation of Chi Omega.

MUSIC is always a favorite feature on the schedule of rush party events.

INDEPENDENT COEDS get a taste of sorority fellowship in leisurely singing old favorites.

RUSH WEEK offers everyone an opportunity to become better acquainted.

FANCY PARISIAN WAIT-RESSES serve the rushees in the true style of the French cafe and coffee house.

SOMETIMES YOU STAND IN LINE but party food is usually worth the waiting.

FEMALE RUSHEES, like the boys, enjoy sampling the party goodies prepared for them.

ENTERTAINMENT can be a multitude of things, including a take-off on fads like the "Beatles,"

A couch appears in the middle of the cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. and students merely nod wisely to one another and say "rush." This means that one fraternity decided some of the furniture in the Stateroom didn't belong at their rush party. Our definition of rush may not follow Webster's to the letter, but the essential connotations are preserved. A freshman girl can spill coffee in her Wigwam neighbor's lap, but she'd better check to make sure the injured party has no sorority pin before she apologizes. The visit of the New Orleans Philharmonic was a welcome break though party schedules were disturbed.

EVERY RUSHEE gets a name tag. Sometimes receiving a name on a piece of paper is an enjoyable experience.

Week Ends in Saturday Preferences

ENTERTAINMENT AT A PARTY is often more than speeches or bands. A song and dance routine wins friends.

LANCE ALWORTH of Arkansas and American League football fame spoke at the Pi Kappa Alpha party.

A PARISIAN ATMOSPHERE dominated the Phi Mu party as the costumes of the members set the pace.

FOOD gets the ultimate rushee vote.

Mixed Reactions to Dorm Life

Walk down any hall in any dorm at any time: you will find someone up. and if you talk to him loud enough, someone else will say "Be quiet! I'm trying to sleep." Dorms—they are what you haven't been back to all day. They are what you haven't left all weekend. If you are a girl they are what you have to sign out of. If you are a boy, they are where you go to sleep when you want a change from sleeping in class. If you live off-campus, they and their rules are incomprehensible. They are what you go "home" to at night and "home" from on weekends. They represent a way of life you hate and love. They are dorms.

YES, THE CLOCK reads one a.m., but the story (or illustration) is too good to put down. Late hours are ok if your roommate doesn't mind.

PERSONAL CONVENIENCES, such as the telephone, are installed in some rooms. Telephones save time and trouble but make your room a popular place.

NUMEROUS WEEK NIGHT dates are spent in the dorm lobbies with the couple pouring over assignments for tomorrow's class periods.

A FAVORITE PASTIME of the dorm-dweller between study periods is the card game which can usually be found if sought hard enough.

NEWLY CROWNED MISS ARKANSAS STATE, Joan Farrell of Paragould, poses after the contest with first alternate Mary Haley, right, and second alternate Betty Steinsiek.

FORMER PAGEANT WINNER Sally Lynn Dennis congratulates Miss Farrell after passing her crown on to the new Miss A-State.

Miss ASC Standards Rigid

Tension, excitement and a flurry of activities herald the arrival of the Miss ASC pageant. The girls were personality-tested by judges at a Pepsi party and then poise and beauty-tested in front of a packed Wilson auditorium. This year the freshman class had three in the top five and the sophomores two. Second alternate and talent winner was pianist, dancer and bassoonist, Betty Steinsiek. One of last year's top five, Mary Haley, was this year's first runner-up. The evening gown division was won by the over-all winner, Joan Farrell. Sandy Manning and Sue Stewart completed the top five.

EACH OF THE FIVE finalists picked a word at random on which they elaborated to give the judges an idea of their stage poise and personality.

CIRCLE K members and pageant officials gather backstage to compare speculations as to who the top five finals and the eventual winner of the contest will be.

State Event Next in Line for Winner

THE MOOD of Sue Stewart's musical skit evolved from hillbilly humor to ballet to a modern jazz routine.

BACKSTAGE TENSIONS are relieved by casual conversation among the entries.

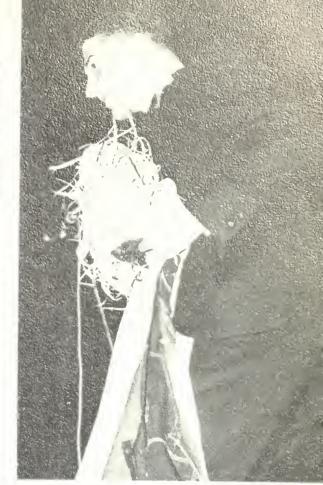

Are talent, wit, poise and beauty too much to ask of one girl? Circle K, sponsor of the Miss ASC Contest, doesn't seem to think so, and the judges have managed to pick a winner every year so far. Bets are won and lost each year by spectators, but the losers who view the candidates seem to think that the feast of beauty compensates for any monetary reversals. All organizations are eligible to enter as many contestants as they wish, but the number is usually limited because of the ten dollar entry fee. However, that large trophy is quite attractive, and Miss ASC could become Miss Arkansas, and you know what Miss Arkansas became.

DRESSED IN THE STYLE of the farm, this contestant presented as her talent a song and piano routine.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES Tony Ellis also served the show as stage hand.

MARY HALEY flashes the smile to the judges that helped her to win second alternate.

COMMUNITY SERVICE and benevolent projects are present on the activity list of all A-State Greek letter organizations.

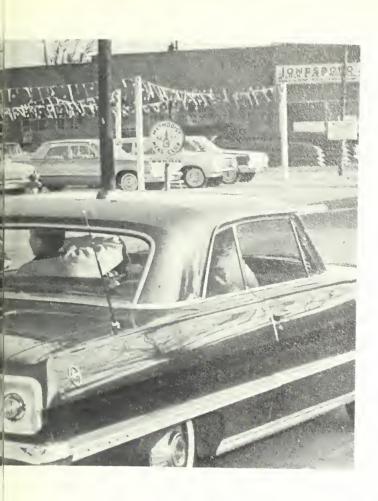

INTRAMURAL ACTIVITY between fraternities is always competitive. Football especially gives the men an opportunity to relieve their tensions.

EVERY SOCIAL ORGANIZATION on campus sponsors some type of activity in which all groups may participate. The Teke Fingerbowl and parade is one of those activities.

THE PANHELLENIC COUNCIL is comprised of the presidents of each sorority. The council poses here with Miss Peggy Stroud, Dean of Women.

Many Facets to Greek Campus Life

Greeks are a strange breed. They demonstrate versatility through talent, dramatic and musical productions and athletic competition. They present themselves as students. To onlookers they are participants in almost every phase of campus life. Within each group there is a strong sense of ethnocentrism. Between groups there is rivalry sometimes friendly, sometimes not so friendly. Greeks are a strange breed—a mixture of activity and nonchalance, philanthropic projects and spirited—competition, friendship and enmity. It all depends on your point of view.

RUSHEES SEEM TO BE ENJOYING themselves during the entertainment being provided them by members of Chi Omega at the Chi O rush party.

AWARDS COME OFTEN to the A-State fraternities. This one happens to be the scholarship trophy awarded each semester to the fraternity with the top grade point.

Herald Means Monday Work

A sheet of paper, a blob of ink, a slug of type-you have a newspaper. After a harrowing Monday of writing and editing copy and counting head-lines, journalism students have decided there's more to it. Monday is frantic because that is the day the stories go in. The more responsibility you have, the more stories you write, the more frantic you get. Tuesday the very last stories go downstairs to the printer, and after countless proofs are read and layouts are designed, Friday comes. On Friday you ean walk through the Wigwam. Maybe someone will be reading your story.

I KNOW WE WERE bad when we were writing copy, but we couldn't have been this bad. Tex claims he hears this every year, but we weren't that bad—or were we?

THESE ARE THE PEOPLE to whom you complain if the story you wanted on the society page didn't make it.

One thing about members of the editing class, they are always willing to tell someone how to do something.

FROM THE TIME A reporter turns in a story until you see it in your Herald, someone is checking it to make sure every word is right. Gleuda Daniel and Sonny Foster, the editors do most of the checking since they get most of the complaints.

Indian Staff

You begin with ideas, hundreds of them, and a great amount of dedication. If you're lucky, you have an interested, well-humored advisor as your guide—we did. Next, add a score of interested, hard-working souls who are game to learn what "deadline" and "night work" means. Then you have it? Not on your life! Vital ingredients are still missing. Add hours and hours of research, phone calls, planning and replanning, drawing and redrawing, plenty of black coffee and cigarettes for the nervous system. Take all the good and bad comments, suggestions, and just plain old griping, include all the clowning around, wee tiny morning hours, empty scotch tape rolls, encouragement from the staff and the campus police, friendly advice from competent, helpful secretaries, janitors, or the President of the College. Don't forget No Doz. Dean Moore's portable radio, fights with the ping-pong balls stored in the annual room, fifty misplaced pictures, auditors camped on your doorstep, many class cuts and red, red eyes. The recipe is only begun. The reader is now holding in his hands a little piece of the life of each staff member. We hope that it is also a part, however large or small, of his life as well. Hundreds of things happen every day on a college campus. We have tried to capture as much of this myriad activity as humanly possible. Proudly, we nogive you the 1964 Indian.

"A Midsummer

Night's Dream"

The Arkansas State College Theatre produced A Midsummer Night's Dream for its final production of the year to join theatre groups all over the world in honoring William Shakespeare on the Four-hundredth anniversary of his birth. An enthusiastic crew of actors, technicians and customers took the eternally fresh and beautiful words of the Bard of Avon and enhanced them in a visually beautiful production long to be remembered by all who saw it.

Cheerleaders

Fall and winter sports action keeps the A State cheerleaders whirling around campus putting up posters and banners, organizing pep rallies and preparing to lead cheers at the Indian games in their duty of caising the spirit of the student body and the team.

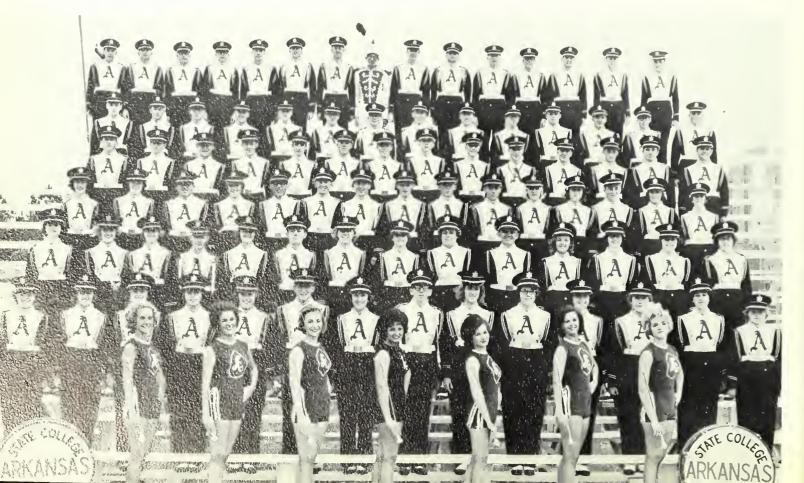

THE CHORAL UNION is composed of all students who like to sing for sheer enjoyment. Under the direction of the music faculty, the chorunion presents two concerts in the A-State auditorium each year. Singing both serious and light works, the group is often accompanied by orchestra or brass choir. The students give much of their time in practicing and are certainly an asset to ASC.

Musical Groups Are Varied

At Arkansas State there are many and varied fine arts groups ranging all the way from the relatively large choral union to the outstanding concert band to the very select group composing the Madrigal Singers. Back again but better than ever were the ASC Singers who performed in concerts and tours. The Kammer Kapelle was something new, thanks to Choral Director Alfred Skoog, who was also the inventor of A-State's harpsichord. We think those 7 a.m. practices were worth it.

THE BAND WITH THE NUMBER ONE SOUND IN THE SOUTH is the Arkansas State Marching Indian Band. The band, under the direction of Donald R. Minx, has gained national publicity in recent years. Home game halftime shows are highlighted by the band's marching.

per week keep them in topnotch form, The group presents two concerts annually.

THE MEMBERS OF KRAMER KAPELLE must really love to sing—they meet at 7:15 a.m. daily. The group is composed of 20 or 30 students chosen from the ASC Singers and makes several road trips annually.

THE MADRIGAL SINGERS have won quite a reputation in their one year on campus. Many A-State students heard madrigals for the first time when the singers performed at the White Christmas Program. This select group, composed of approximately 12 students, sings not only madrigals, but also other types of camber music, and usually performs A Cappella.

Student station manager, Tony Ellis of Pine Bluff, takes charge of the staff operations of KASU-FM.

Nearly all of the day's announcing falls in the hands of two experienced staff announcers, Jim Cathey and Larry Miller.

KASU...Radio Voice of A-State

Arkansas State's college-owned student operated broadcasting station, KASU-FM is the voice of the students and the institution. It serves as a noncommercial, educational station, providing a training ground for students majoring and minoring in Radio Journalism, KASU-FM provides a variety of programming, including news, special events, music, and public service information to a wide audience in Northeast Arkansas, Southeast Missouri, and the Jonesboro area. The originating station of a chain of connecting stations, the Indian Sports Network, KASU-FM transmits all important sports events to interested stations throughout the area.

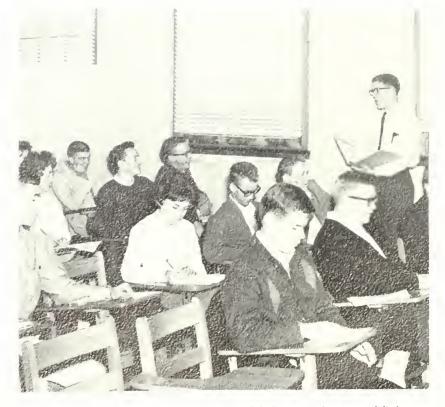

Mr. Charles Rasberry, head radio instructor and manager of A-State's 1000-watt station, gives a headphone set the once-over before broadcasting time. Every piece of equipment is double-checked before use by radio workshop students.

Jim Cathey makes the daily time check, recording voltage, frequency deviation, and antenna current every thirty minutes. F.C.C. regulations require that a constant check be made of station power.

Special events broadcasting is an important part of KASU-FM coverage of the campus. All activities of importance to area residents are carried, such as graduation exercises, which are being aired here by a special team composed of Tom Manning, News Bureau director, Charles Rasberry, instructor in radio, and Jim Starnes, staff announcer.

Many hours of radio instruction are required before a student is qualified to operate KASUFW's complicated transmitting equipment, and to plan and coordinate the myriad daily programming. Students receive program instruction from Mr. Darrel Curningham (above).

Presenting Arkansas' No. 1 Band The Arkansas State

Marching Indians An organization built on untold hours of physical and mental effort, a great desire on the part of all its members, and a fierce pride in knowing that it holds a ranking among the elite of its kind anywhere in the nation—Arkansas State's Marching Indians. Under the direction of Donald R. Minx, director of A-State bands, now completing a decade of capable leadership, this group has continued to bring the name of Arkansas State to the fore wherever and whenever it is called to perform. Early in 1961, the group travelled to Washington. D.C. to represent the state of Arkansas in the Inaugural Parade. In May of last year, the Concert Band, the nucleus being made up of Marching Bandsmen, performed for the Arkansas Music Educators Association, which selects only the highest quality of performance for its meetings. If these and other top honors are any indication of its future, the Marching Indians have only begun their march,

Majorettes

Beautiful girls are an integral part of the pageantry of football, and Arkansas State is not lacking when it comes to the majorette line. However, it takes more than comeliness to gain a spot on the A-State line for Don Minx's standards require a great deal of ability in the arts of twirling, strutting and dancing. Halftime at an A-State game is a unique experience for the newcomer. Much of this is due to the effort of the majorettes who design elever routines for each performance of the Indian Band, Under the leadership of Sandra Merguie,

Versatile Ike Pilots Indians into League

Piloting Indian sports since 1946 is J. A. "Ike" Tomlinson, athletic director and baseball coach of Arkansas State. It was Ike, as much as anyone, who was responsible for A-State's joining the new Southland Conference—the biggest athletic step in the school's history. Tomlinson came to A-State in 1943 and has coached all three major sports during his 21-year tenure.

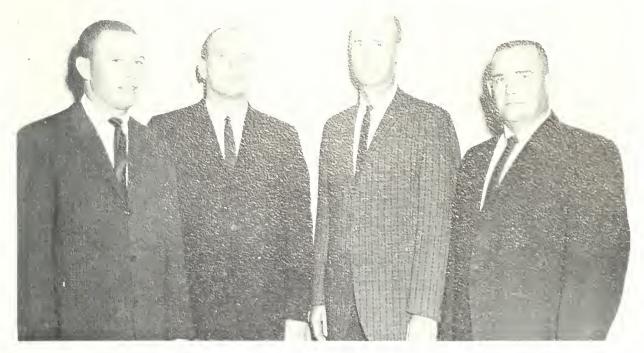

JOHN ROSE, another new addition to the A-State coaching ranks, serves as head track coach and assistant basketball coach—a position formerly void at Arkansas State.

New Coaching Faces in Athletic Picture

Benny Ellender was thrust into the head coaching spot late this summer after one season at A-State. He formerly coached at Tulane University and in Louisiana High schools.

The 1963-64 athletic year at Arkansas State was a testing period for coaches as well as players, as an almost completely new coaching staff headed Indian teams filled with young and inexperienced players. With only two seniors on the squad, Bennie Ellender took over the head reigns in football, in a heartbreaking season that saw the Tribe lose four games by a total of 11 points. Assisting Ellender in football were Wayne Armstrong, Bill Davidson and Hassell McCain. In basketball Marvin Speight took over as head coach after ten years as head coach of A State's Beebe branch. Coach Speight, also with only two seniors on his squad, led the Indians to a very successful season. Filling a newly created position on the staff was John Rose, who served as head track coach and assistant basketball coach. Coach Rose also handled A.State's first jumior varsity basketball team. Longtime basketball coach John Rauth, the resigned his basketball duties last year, tutored the Indians in both golf and tennis as both sports were reactivated in order to participate in the Southland Conference.

INFORMATION IS RELAYED to coach Ellender from the press box where one of his assistants is stationed to observe the game for weaknesses—both A-State's and those of the opponents.

Late Scoring

QUARTERBACK SHELBY LEE indicates that the wide stripe has been crossed by the Big Red. Lee served the Tribe well as field general was regular quarterback Gary Everett was injured.

THE POINT-AFTER-TOUCHDOWN was good despite the determined efforts of the Greenies from Delta State. Delta State was another in the ASC series of narrow losses—this one 27-21. Freshman Andy Hooper, the Indian's 150 pound kicking specialist, here completes the score.

Shadows 2-6 Season

No one can say that the 1964 football season was not a disappointment. You can't have a 2-6 record and not be disheartened. But in retrospect several eausative factors appear. The coaching change in mid-summer gave the athletes and the coaches a minimum of preparation time. Tennessee Tech. first opponent, posed a formidable foe; and the Teehsters were adamant, 42-0. Nevertheless, the Tribe performed well against major opponent, the Citadel, but looked equally hapless defensively in other games. For the most part the Big Red offense moved the football well. Gary Everett came on strong toward the end. passing with confidence and developing as a running threat. President Kennedy's assassination cancelled A-State's final game with Trinity University. Seniors? Jake Darby and Mitchell Hale were dandies, but our letterman erop speaks well for A-State in 1964—the initial eonference year.

OUTRUNNING HIS DEFENDER to snag a pass from Indian quarterback Gary Everett, halfback Tommy Reese takes the football deep into Murray territory. Murray edged the tribe in the Homecoming duel.

"It's Not Our Night," T-Tech Wins 42-0

Seemingly unprepared for their first outings the Indians fell to the Eagles of Tennessee Tech 42-0. The Tribe experienced misfortune in the season's opener as quarterback Gary Everett re-injured his sprained ankle on the first play from scrimmage. After a scoreless first quarter halfback Bill Berry cut his wrist severely on a broken bottle while knocking down a Tech pass to the end zone. Berry represented not only the Indians fastest running back, but also star defensive safety man. With Everett and Berry out of the game, the Indians were unable to hold the relentless attack of the Eagles. The Eagles also took advantage in this respect as they held the Indians offense to 93 yards. Guards Jake Darby and Dave Werner along with end Mitchell Hale were the tribes defensive standouts. Rickus led the attack in offense picking up 36 yards. Assistant coach Bill Davidson had this to say about the game, "When your fastest back almost cuts his hand off on a broken bottle in the end zone, you get the feeling that it's just not your night."

A BLOCK which springs loose halfback Bill Bailey (46) is levied by team captain and guard Jake Darby (68) as Bailey eludes the clutches of another would-be Tennessee Tech tackler.

Freshman's Toe Boots First Victory

The toe of freshman Andy Hooper provided a 2point margin as the Indians clinched the season's first win, 14-12, over Florence State. Offensively the Indians relied on the superb running efforts of Harold Wallin, Ed Rickus and Ken Mashburn. After a scoreless first quarter, the Indians scored early in the second quarter on a 9-play, 60-yard drive, concluded by a 5-yard run by Rickus. The Indians second TD came in the fourth quarter with 8:12 remaining. This drive—finished by Wallin on a 1-yard plunge—covered 57-yards and 15 plays. Alert linebacker Mike Berta knocked down a pass to spoil the Lions attempted 2-point conversion which would have tied the game. Defensive standouts in the game were Mitchell Hale, Mike Berta, Dan Summers and Jake Darby. The Lions first TD came in the third quarter on a 60yard march, and their second came in the fourth quarter on a 67-yard drive.

TWO OPPOSING FORCES prepare to meet—one in the person of ball carrier Bill Bailey (46). The Big Red edged Florence their first 1963 victory.

Tribal Barrage Overwhelms St. Mary

Scoring their most lop-sided victory since 1951, the Indians completely overwhelmed St. Mary of the Plain 68-7. Statisticians had their hands full just keeping up with the seore while Chief Big Track was using three different horses in making ten trips around the field. The Tribe led 20-7 at the end of the first half in what appeared to be a relatively close ball game. But as the second half unfolded, so did the score. Crossing the goal line for A-State were Harold Wallin twice, Eddie Rickus, Mitchell Hale, Tommy Reese, Bill Pagano, Billy Joe Bailey, Gordon Freeman, Robert Mc-Evoy and Huel Heath. The Big Red offense rolled up a total of 401 yards in the game, 321 of it eoming on the ground. A-State had 21 first downs. The Tribe's defense allowed St. Mary only 20 yards on the ground. Several freshmen stood out in the game as Coach Ellender cleared his bench. They were Heath. Freeman. McEvoy, Bryan Caplinger, and Andy Hooper, who kieked seven

In the game that seemed to set the stage for the rest of the season, Arkansas State lost a heartbreaker to the Citadel 10-9. The Tribe witnessed a defeat turned to a victory and back to a defeat, all in the last 40 seconds of the game. A 34-yard field goal by Cadet Pat Green won the game for the Citadel after Dan Summers had put the Indians ahead with a beautiful 43-yarder against the wind. The Cadets had taken a 7-0 lead with 12 minutes left in the second quarter on a 72-yard run by halfback Converse Chellis and the allimportant extra point by Green. The score was still 7-0 midway in the fourth quarter when A-State recovered a fumble on the Citadel sevenyard line. Fullback Eddie Rickus carried over from the four, but the extra point was missed and the score remained 7-6 until the final minute of play. Shelby Lee led the Indians with his fine signal-calling at quarterback as the Tribe rolled up 231 yards of total offense to the Cadets 190.

Second Half Collapse Boosts Southern

Trailing only 3-0 at the end of the first half, Arkansas State lost its hold and suffered a 25-0 defeat to the University of Southern Mississippi. The Tribe played the Southerners to a near standstill the first half, but the Southern defense. ranked ninth best in the nation, proved to be the difference. With a line that averaged 213 pounds per man, USM held the Big Red to 18 yards rushing and 21 yards in the air. The Tribe had repulsed one deep penetration, but a 32-yard field goal with 45 seconds left in the half gave the Southerners the 3-0 lead. In the second half, the Southerners showed the form that had made them a heavy favorite in the game. They took the opening kickoff to the Tribe 46 and from there it was only a matter of time until they erossed the goal line. The Southerners scored again in the third quarter and added another marker late in the fourth quarter. The Tribe's deepest penetration was to the Southern 32-yard line.

Murray State, one of the stronger teams of the Ohio Valley Conference, broke a 33-26 A-State lead in the final period with 46 seconds to play when Tony Fioravanti, Murray's quarterback, passed for a three-yard touchdown, and then tossed the two-pointer to end the game with Murray winning by the score of 34-33.

Delta piled up a 21-0 lead in the first half before Arkansas State regained its poise and began the counterattack. The Indians pulled within seven points at 21-14 early in the final period, but the Statesmen punched across another touchdown to put the game out of reach.

ALMOST OUT OF BOUNDS but plunging forward enough for the first down is fullback Harold Wallin (30). In the pile are Bill Harrison (65), Mike Berta (54) and H. K. Reeves (79). Delta protected its home winning streak against the Tribe, 27-21, despite Gary Everett's record breaking aerial exhibition.

Basketball Play Initiate

Entering the new Southland Conference, liosting the second annual Holiday Tournament and playing the nation's seventh-ranked team were the main attractions of this year's edition of Indian basketball. Coach Marvin Speight, in his first year as head coach at Arkansas State guided the youthful Tribe to a successful season against competition that included many top-flight major and medium college teams. Junior Jerry Rook, teamed with freshman John Dickson, seniors Jerry Hudgins and Mike Dungan and junior Dave Markovich to form the starting five for the Redmen. Rook again had an outstanding year, pacing the Indians in nearly all categories. However, the entire season was filled with team efforts as coach Speight worked into the scoring column to take full advantage of Rook's potent threat. Dickson proved a pleasant surprise as he relieved much of the pressure ordinarily placed on Rook.

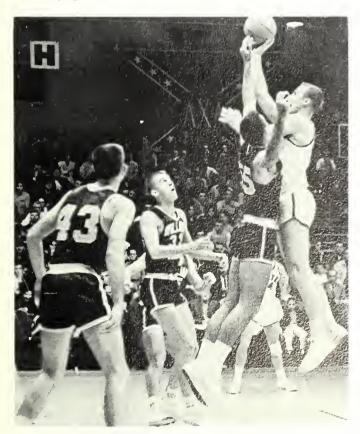

OLD HAND JERRY ROOK, renown Indian basketeer, sized freshman John Dickson into an A-State jersey. Dickson liked the fit and came on as one of the Tribe's three outstanding big men.

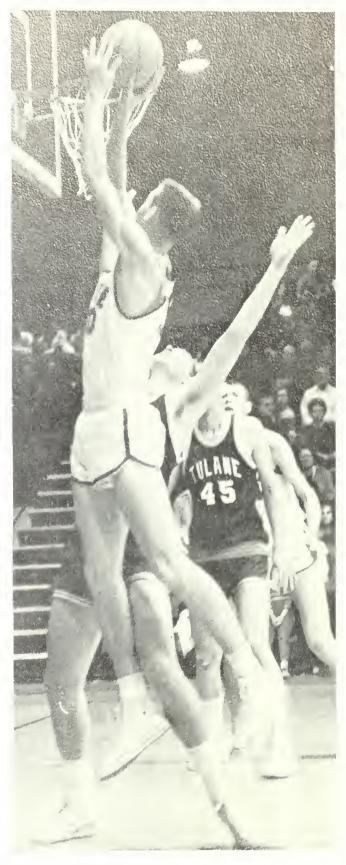

ONE OF TWO SENIORS on the squad, Mike Dungan (24) teamed with Dave Markovich (32) as floor generals for the Tribe.

WHEN THE REFEREE TOSSED THE BALL UP the 1963-64 basketball season was tipped off for Arkansas State as they encountered Southeast Missouri at Cape. Nationally ranked SeMo took the victory, 80-75, and added fuel to the rivalry which has see-sawed back and forth between the two institutions.

Tribal Season Opens With Road Losses

Producing a surprisingly strong showing in their first outing, the Indians dropped an 80-75 heart-breaker to Southeast Missouri State—the nation's ninth-ranked small college team. It was a bitter beginning for head coach Marvin Speight, who saw his inexperienced youngsters lead Cape 73-71 in the final two minutes, only to lose in a succession of offensive fouls. John Dickson, the 6-9 freshman from Jonesboro, scored 21 points in his first college performance while senior letterman Mike Dungan chipped in 23. Jerry Rook and Dave Markovich added 14 and 12 points respectively. Jerry Rook was about the only bright spot for the Indians in their next outing as he racked up 29 points against the Murray State Thoroughbreds. The Racers hit a blazing 50 per cent of their shots as they crushed A-State 93-63. Coach Speight played his freshmen and sophemores liberally in the second half.

Major Home Victory Enhances Record

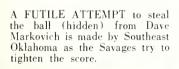

Arkansas State broke into the win column in spinetingling fashion as they took a 64-63 thriller from the North Texas State Eagles. The Tribe slowed the ballgame down and kept North Texas from their usual run-and-shoot type of ball. As the two teams headed down the stretch in a neck-and-neck race. A-State's Jerry Rook took command and the issue was settled. Rook led both teams with 22 points while Jerry Hudgins added 18. For the first time in history Arkansas State swept a two-game series from the Southeast Oklahoma Savages. The Indians took a 65-61 first night victory and won the second night's game by a 64-63 margin. John Dickson led the scoring in both games as he racked up 20 and 25 points respectively. Jerry Rook chipped in 18 in both games. Southeast Oklahoma produced its usual ball-hawking offense, but could not compare with the Indians' height under the basket.

A DECIDING FACTOR in the first major victory of the season for the Indians was the clutch shooting and rebounding of Jerry Rook, Rook hit for 22 points against North Texas State.

THE SOFT TOUCH of Rook's jump shot is a thorn in the side of many A-State opponents. Rook's uncanny eye for the basket won him the honor of the all-tournament team.

Texas Western Steamroller

For the second year in a row, Arkansas State's Holiday Tournament championship went to Texas. This year's champion was Texas Western, as the talented Miners from El Paso took their tenth straight victory. The Miners clubbed Tulane 76-59 in first round action and sacked William and Mary 61-51 for the championship. Also for the second year in a row, Arkansas State took third place in the tournament by downing Tulane. This time the score was 84-77. The Indians lost a heartbreaker the first night as William and Mary took a 73-71 overtime victory from the Tribe and won the right to stand in the way of Texas Western's steam-roller. A-State's Jerry Rook led all scorers in the tournament with 71 points in the two games. Texas Western's Jim Barnes scored 56 points in his two games. Both Rook and Barnes were chosen to the all-tournament team along with Dale Gott of Tulane, Jerry Hudgins of A-State, Dave Hunter of William and Mary and Andy Stoglin of Texas Western.

A-STATE'S BIGGEST INDIAN, John Dickson, goes up for two of his 15 points in the CBC game. The big center also picked off II rebounds to lead the Indians in that department as he did many times.

Indians Slip Once in Next Five Games

Arkansas State came back strong from a holiday layoff as the Tribe subdued Christian Brothers College 81-67. John Dickson scored 30 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead the Indians. Jerry Rook chipped in 20 points. The best defensive offset of the season helped the Tribe gain a 70-55 victory over Delta State College at Cleveland, Miss. Rook led all scorers with 30 markers. In a "nightmare" of a game, A-State dropped a 108-76 decision to Abilene Christian College at Abilene. Tex. Rook was the only bright spot of the game as he fired in 33 points. The Tribe took its first victory in the Southland Conference by clubbing Trinity University 87-60. All five starters hit in double figures led by Dickson with 19 and Rook with 17. A horde of 6.500 people packed Indian Fieldhouse for the first time as A State humiliated Southeast Missouri 75-53. The best team effort of e season produced the victory and gained revenge

After a ten day layoff for semester tests the Indians traveled to Warrensburg, Mo., and took an 87-81 thriller from Central, Mo. The Tribe hit an amazing 57 per cent from the field. Rook led all scorers as he chalked up 30 points. The fifth ranked major college team in the nation proved too much for A-State as Vanderbilt took a 108-73 victory. The nervous Tribe hit only 23 per cent in the first half and could never recover. John Dickson scored 26 points to lead A State. In the first Southland Conference game ever played in Indian Fieldhouse, the Tribe clobbered Trinity 109-75. Rook hit 36 points, Jerry Hudgins 27 and John Dickson 23 in the historic game. Trailing by four points with 17 seconds left. A-State scrambled to force an overtime and took an 82-76 victory from Arlington State at Arlington, Avenging one of the worst defeats of the season. JERRY HUDGINS NIGHT WAS CELEBRATED when the Indians faced Lamar Tech for the conference lead. Despite the Tribe loss, Hudgins played a great game, scoring 28 points and grabbing 9 rebounds.

Trumann fans were out in full force when Abilene Christian College visited the Indians. It was "Mike Dungan Night." and Dungan made a fine showing as the Indians took sole possession of second place in the Southland Conference by beating the Wildcats 92-66. Traveling to Memphis, the Tribe survived the scare of Christian Brothers College to boost its season's record to 14-5. The Indians placed four men in double figures and bumped CBC 68-61. "Jerry Hudgins Night" was celebrated the night the Tribe battled Lamar Tech for the Southland Conference lead. Hudgins led the Redmen in scoring with 28 points, but it wasn't quite enough as A-State fell 91-88. A late Indian rally fell just short of the mark and Lamar Tech had sole possession of first place in the SLC. Traveling to the University of Southwestern Louisiana. A-State lost its second 'heartbreaker' in a row, as USL took a 82-78 "thriller." Jerry Rook led Indian scoring with 27 markers.

Rook, Hudgins Spark Final 4 Games

Loyola University of the South hit 62.5 per cent from the field and captured an 86-75 basketball brawl from A-State. Jerry Rook and Jerry Hudgins led the Tribe in scoring with 27 and 23 points respectively. Overcoming some very rough tactics employed by the Delta State Greenies, the Tribe took an 85-63 victory. Rook led the Indians with 23 markers. Hudgins backed up the scoring attack with 16 points, all coming in the first half. Hudgins and Rook again teamed up for a two-man show against Arlington State as the two accounted for 62 of the Tribe's 90 points. Hudgins hit his career high in scoring as he tossed in 33 points. Rook cracked the single season scoring mark with 29 points. bringing his total to 602. Lamar Tech sewed up the first Southland Conference basketball title as the Cardinals took a 95-69 victory from A-State. Rook led the Tribe with 31 points.

JERRY ROOK TAKES A REST in the heat of a close game. It was one of the few rests that Rook has received during a game in his three years of college basketball.

ARKANSAS STATE'S ALL-AMERICAN is the center of attention as he goes up for a jump ball in the Delta State game. Dickson, Hudgins and Higgins look on.

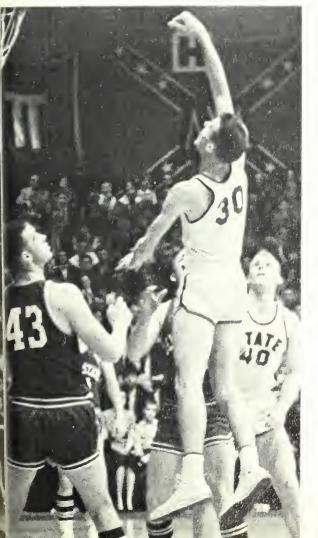

DUNGAN STARTS A DRIVE that eventually led to two points in the game with Abilene Christian College, The hustling, senior guard gave it all he had in every game both on offense and defense.

BIG NUMBER 40 GRABS A REBOUND as a Delta State defender tries to stop him. Trying to stop Rook proved harder than he thought and Jerry came down with the ball, Rook averaged 10 rebounds a game.

JERRY HUDGINS TIPS IN TWO POINTS by seemingly standing on air, Jerry Rook looks on for A-State, but his help wasn't needed this time, Hudgins came on strong the second half of the season, consistently hitting in the twenties and thirties.

Rook Named All-American

With one year still remaining, Arkansas State's Jerry Rook has gained more honors and set more records than any other basketball player in the school's history. At the end of his junior year the six-foot, five-inch forward was named to the college division All-American second team of the Associated Press. The United Press International also listed Rook as an All-American, placing him on the third team. Coaches of the Southland Conference picked Rook as a unanimous choice for the first all-conference team, as he led the loop in scoring with a 27.3 average per game. Rook snapped four marks this past season, bringing his total to six school records. They are: most points in a career. 1.645; most points in a season, 633; highest average per game in a season, 25.3; most field goals in a season, 243; most field goals in a game. 18; and most points in a game, 43. The 1964-65 basketball season should prove to be a great one for Rook and for Arkansas State.

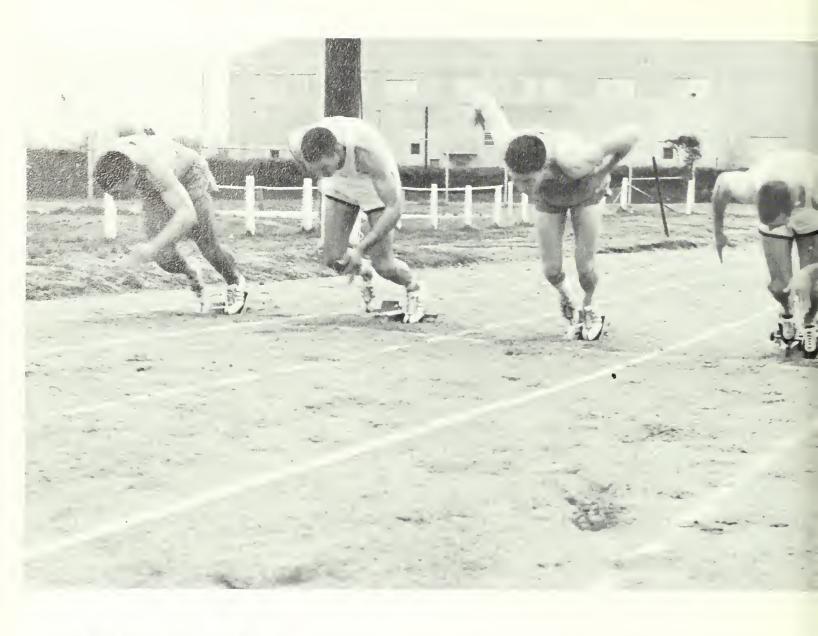

DEFENSING ROOK IS NEARLY IMPOSSIBLE as this William and Mary player found out. In most games Rook is double-teamed, but he is almost never stopped cold.

BIG NUMBER 40 SHOWS THE FORM of his jump shot that has made him famous in his basketball career. The fact that Rook scores most of his points from more than 20 feet out is the amazing part of his average.

Spring Sports

Track Becomes Major Sport

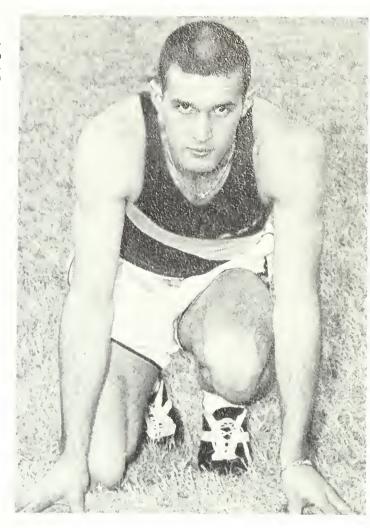

With only three lettermen returning from the year before, the Indian track team gave a good account of itself in its first year of track competition as a major sport. Letterman Stan Nelson, the school record holder in the half mile. Sonny Bishop, standard bearer in the pole vault, and David Chandler, mile record owner, provided leadership for the youthful thinclads in A-State's first year in the Southland Conference. Several men set school marks and turned in fine performances. Freshman David Young became the first 50-foot-plus shot putter at A-State. Most of this year's team were freshmen, including sprinters Tony Cannon, Billy Waldrip, and Jimmy Green, broad jumper Eddic Pruitt, hurdler Gary Haag, high jumper Jerald Spencer and pole vaulter Eddie Fitzhugh. Track Coach John Rose began a cross-country program last fall which proved to be beneficial to the track team. A-State's cross-country squad compiled a 3-2 record against established cross-country teams.

THE START OF A LONG RUN is shown above, as the Tribe meets Memphis State in a cross-country meet at home.

FRESHMAN TONY CANNON was one of the pleasant surprises for Coach John in his first year as track coach. Cannon consistently placed high in sprints and short distance runs.

TWO TRIBE SPRINTERS, Tony Cannon, second from left, and Billy Waldrip, far right, start off the blocks in a duel with Memphis State in March. These two men were counted on heavily during the year for short distances.

FRESHMAN HIGH JUMPER Jerald Spencer clears the bar in a practice session for Coach John Rose. Spencer is expected to have a great future in track at A-State. Over half of the track team this year were freshmen.

THE MOST CONSISTENT of all the A-State tracksters is junior Stan Nelson. Nelson participated in both track and cross-country. He is the school record holder in the half mile.

Baseball Schedule Is Tough

JIM KELLER TAKES A HEALTHY SWING during one of the Tribe's early games. The swing resulted in an important extra-base hit for the Redmen.

RIGHT ON TOP OF THE ACTION is the umpire as an important play develops at home plate. The Indian catcher in the picture is Bob Webb. The Northwestern player was called out.

With only four returning starters off last year's squad, Coach J. A. "Ike" Tomlinson faced an uphill struggle with his 1964 edition of Indian baseball. The four returning starters—Bob Webb behind the plate, Jim Keller at first, George Glenn at third and Curtis Seymore in center—were counted on heavily during the season. The nucleus of the pitching staff was composed of Jerry Hudgins, Ivan Jackson and Jim McKay, and all three provided steady pitching. Newcomers to the starting lineup were Jim Burke and Glenn Brasfield. Burke played outfield for the Tribe and gained the reputation of having a strong and deadly arm. Brassfield roamed the area at shortstop and was one of the leaders in the hitting department. A-State played its usual tough competition including such teams as Memphis State. Ole Miss. Kansas State, Northwestern, and Mississippi State. The Tribe also competed in the first Southland Conference Tournament held May 8 and 9 in Abilene, Texas.

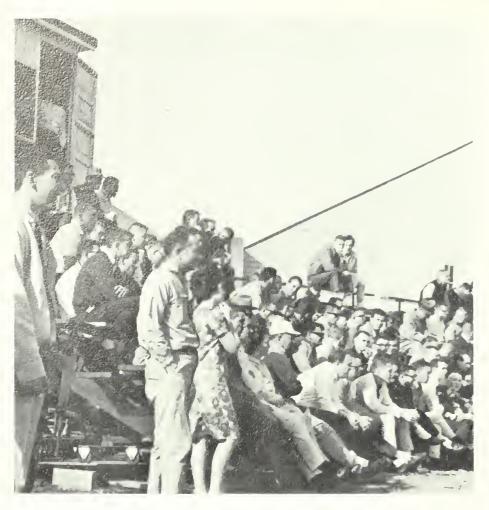

THE INDIANS SQUAD takes a break between games during a double-header with Southwest Missouri. A State's youthful team won both ends of the double-header to make their record 2-0. This year's team was made up of men without much collegiate experience, but will be back in '65.

CATCHER BOB WEBB attempts to bear an infielders throw to first base. Another hit was chalked up for the A-State Indians as they rallied in the eighth to win the first of a 3 game series.

THE PACKED BLEACHERS during one of A-State's early baseball games shows the interest in Indian baseball by the student body and Jonesboro fans. This scene was typical of every game.

NUMBER 5 for the Tribe strokes hit through the infield as both cate and umpire watch closely. The Indi had a young and inexperienced squ and will be looking forward to next year.

COACH J. A. "IKE" TOMLINSON studies the opposition closely and plans strategy for later innings. In this case his strategy paid off, as the Tribe staged a comeback from a deficit of 9-0 to edge Northwestern University 10 to 9.

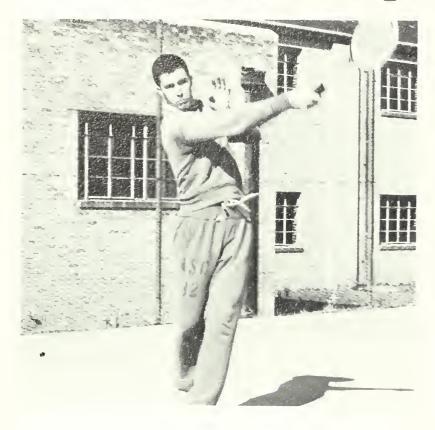

A NORTHWESTERN RUNNER attempts to avoid being tagged out by A-State's rugged catcher, Bob Webb, The Tribe won this one in the late innings. Webb, a returning starter off last year's team, was a main-stay in the Tribe lineup all year as he was one of the leading hitters.

Golf, Tennis Upcoming Sports

Under the guidance of Coach John Rauth, Arkansas State competed in conference golf for the first time in history. The young golf team was made up of Marvin Hinton. Freddie Lewis, Bill Moore, Joey Rogers and Curt Murray. These men were highly inexperienced in college competition, but still made a creditable showing. All five men will return next year to bolster the sport. The tennis team also was lacking in actual regulation experience, but under the leadership of Coach Don Floyd the netters made a fine showing. Men on the tennis team were Mike Carter. Bill Winter, Walt Tomsic, Guy Hassin, Ronnie Byrnes and Harvey Deloach. Inclement weather made golf practice hard for the A-State squad, while the Texas climate was more favorable, allowing other Southland teams to practice almost three months. Tennis practice was slowed down by the shortage of tennis courts, but with six new courts being completed this year the Indian tennis team will be in full swing next year.

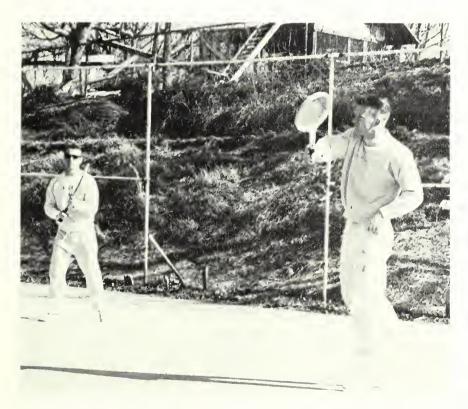

JUNIOR NETTER BILL WINTER takes a swing during a match with the University of Missouri which was held at the Jonesboro YMCA. Because of the lack of court space at the college, the YMCA was used.

ARKANSAS STATE'S FIRST CONFERENCE GOLF TEAM was made up of these five men. They are, left to right, Freddie Lewis, Joey Rogers, Bill Moore, Marvin Hinton and Curt Murray. All five of this year's team will be back next year with some valuable experience.

A DOUBLES MATCH IS THE ACTION in which Guy Hassin and Harvey DeLoach are participating. Both men were capable tennis players for the Indians.

Intramural Program Strong

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS continued to be exciting and rough this year. Such a game was between Chi Omega and AOPi sororities. Susan Wolf of AOPi shoots the ball over defender Alma Moore in a tight scoring contest.

FLAG-TAG FOOTBALL comes early in the fall and starts the intramural season off with a bang. Action in the Sigma Pi-Teke game was typical of games all season.

Playing one of the most important parts of the extra-eurrieular activity at Arkansas State is the strong intramural program. Thirteen sports provide a nine month slate of exciting competition, entered into by hundreds of students, both men and women. These sports are flag-tag football, basketball, track, softball, volleyball, bowling, tennis, badminton, swimming, golf, horseshoes, table tennis, and rifle matches. The highest goal of all groups entering the program is to win the sweepstakes trophy. This trophy is awarded to the group accumulating the highest number of points throughout the year. Individual trophies are also given to the winners of each sport, in addition to their receiving points toward the sweepstakes. Several sports have two divisions, an All-Greek division and a mixed league, but the All-Greek division is sponsored separately. Sportsmanship is stressed in all intramural

TWO TEAMS BATTLE for the basketball in an intramural game in the PE building. Any student can compete in intramurals.

VOLLEYBALL requires teamwork and quickness on the part of an individual. Charlie Miller of Sigma Phi Epsilon gets set to spike the ball against a strong BSU team.

THE ALL-GREEK BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha provides Greeks a chance for additional honors. Pikes defeated Lambda Chi in the "B" division this year to capture first place.

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR sports is swimming. Once a year the gigantic meet is held and a trophy awarded to the team winning the most points. The Teke fraternity was the winner this year winning six of seven events. The A-State pool is open to everyone.

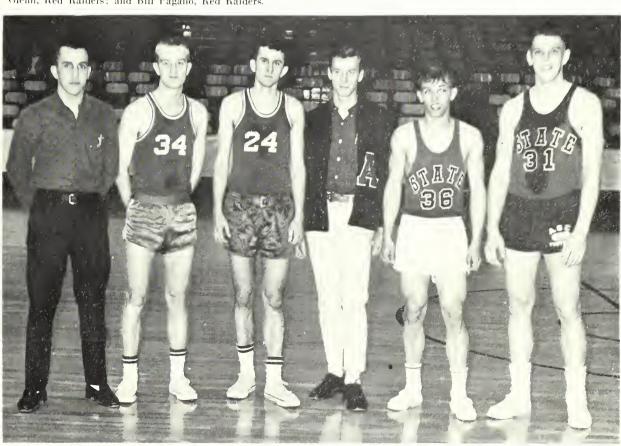

STUDENTS POUR OUT for all intramural sports. The crowd above is interested in the action during the All-Greek Tournament. One group even brought a pep band to a game during the season.

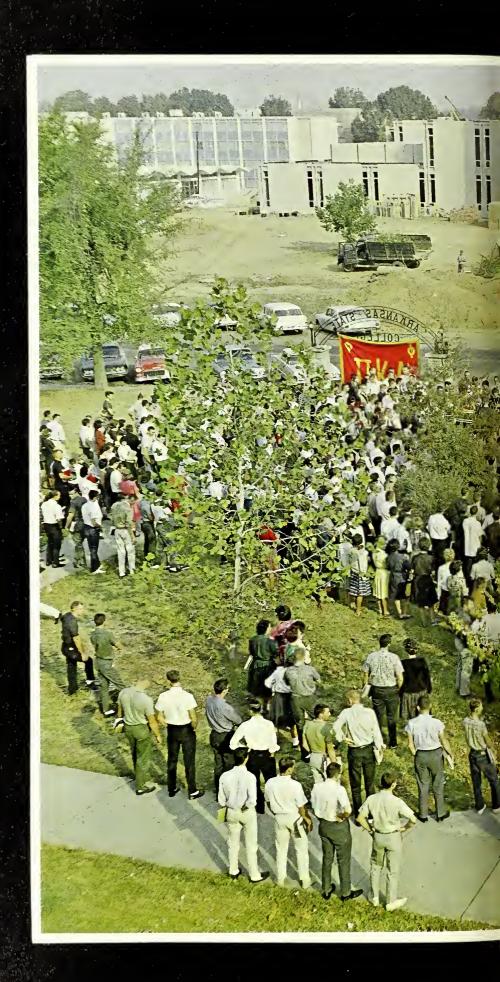

BASKETBALL COMPETITON IS ROUGH as witnessed in this girl's game in the gym. A-State's women compete in a variety of intramural sports.

Board is Factor in Expansion

A necessary ingredient for any progressive college is a competent board of trustees. Countless blue-prints, steel beams and bricks, familiar sights to every A-State student this year, stand mute evidence to the work and planning of capable officials. A-State's board of trustees is composed of five members, one of which is appointed each year by the Governor and confirmed by the State Senate. Each board member serves for five years, Chairman this year is Max Poe of Pocahontas. Other members are Russell E. Owen of Marked Tree, J. H. Smith of Birdeye, Van Smith of Tuckerman and William H. Wyatt of Blytheville.

Dr. Carl Reng Plots College Progress

A-STATE RECEIVES a research grant from the American Cyananid Company to do research in the agriculture field. Dr. Reng endorses the check with Dr. Dewey McNiece, associate professor of Animal Husbandry.

When Dr. Carl R. Reng took over as President of Arkansas State College thirteen years ago. the college had an enrollment of only 1,248 students. Today Arkansas's fastest growing college can barely contain its 3.500 students. Under the guidance of Dr. Reng, five dormitories, a National Guard Armory and million-dollar library have been added to the campus. The Physical Education Building and Printing Plant have been completely remodeled to handle the increase in students. Nearing completion is the two-million dollar student union which will be the finest in Arkansas. The center has been named the Carl R. Reng Center. Through the efforts of Dr. Reng, Arkansas State has joined with four Texas schools in forming the nation's newest conference, the Southland Conference. Dr. Reng worked his way from a high school coach and principal to a faculty position at the University of Arkansas. He became President of Arkansas State in May of 1951.

Dr. N. D. Hazelbaker is in his eleventh year as vice president in charge of instruction at Arkansas State. Dr. Hazelbaker works under the direction of the President of the college and guides the development of A-State's curriculum and instructional program. Dr. Hazelbaker came to Arkansas State in 1953. Under the direction of his office. ASC has expanded its academic program in an effort to provide the student with the best education possible. Dr. Hazelbaker is helping A-State grow rapidly in the field of academics.

Counselor, instructor, and friend are three words which describe Arkansas State's Dean of Students. Mr. Robert Moore is in his fourteenth year of serving the students of A-State. Dean Moore comes in closer contact with the students than most of the administration and therefore his duties are varied and deal with all phases of campus life. Characteristic of Dean Moore is his ability to keep smiling when there are problems and the ability to call a great number of students by their first name. Dean Moore first began serving A-State and its students in 1949, when he came to ASC as Dean of Men.

Firms now need college graduates for executive trainee positions; these executives will need well trained secretaries. For the last ten years the A-State Business Department has been unable to fill the demand for graduates in that major field, though they have at times had more graduates than any other department. The department's four majors—accounting, business administration, business administration, business administration, business administration, business administration of graduates two objectives. They are to give students a broad basic education in anticipation of graduate study and to send into the business and economic fields skilled, enthusiastic men and women. To teach the teachers of tomorrow is the primary program of the Department of Education and Psychology. During their sophomore year students are formally admitted to a teaching program which leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education and certification. Various curricula, depending upon the areas of specialized scholarship, are offered. Courses in psychology are planned for the basic education program as part of the teacher training for students interested in social work, ministerial training, guidance and counseling and for those planning to do advanced work in psychology.

Job to Train, Teach Art Appreciation

The biggest job of A-State's Fine Arts Department is to bring music and art into the lives of every student, making each one a better consumer. According to Dr. Duane H. Haskell, head of the Department of Fine Arts, the greatest creative effort in fine arts is found on the college-university level where it is subsidized. In order to produce educated consumers and trained artists the department has built a faculty, each member of which is a recognized creative artist who is also devoted to education. As part of their basic education, students are required to take general classes in fine arts. Majors are offered a BS in either music or art and a Bachelor of Fine Arts in either.

'Tex' Keeps Things Rolling--Forward

Giving its students active, on-the-job training in communications media, the A-State Department of Radio, Journalism and Printing stresses not only the development of academic ability but also a practical knowledge of journalism and its related fields. Radio journalism students write copy and prepare broadcasts of campus and area events on the college radio station. KASU-FM. The "State College Herald," campus newspaper, gives students valuable experience in writing and editing actual news copy. Printing majors in the department are provided opportunity for both textbook and laboratory work in various phases of printing. Departmental organizations include the KASU Broadcasters Club and the Graphic Arts Club.

The study of ideas, the development of language skills with which to express those ideas, and a knowledge of the ideas of others as seen through literature and drama are molded into a harmonious unit in the Department of Languages and Literature at Arkansas State. Major courses of study in the department are English, theater, French, German and Spanish. Additional minors can be obtained in speech and applied language arts. Because a knowledge of correct English is fundamental to the learning process, a number of courses in this department are also included in the basic education program of the college.

A minor in this field is designed to prepare those who wish to meet the certification requirements for school librarians in the State of Arkansas or to prepare them for graduate school. Expansion Parallels Science Minded Age

In an age of IBM computers, 24-hour satellites and manned space exploration, seience is becoming an increasingly important area of study. The faculty of Arkansas State's Department of Seienee is the largest of the school's 11 departments, an indication of the significant position its courses hold in the eollege eurriculum. Seeking to train its students in the basic and specialized eoncepts of science, the department provides courses leading to degrees in the field of biology, chemistry, physics and mathematies. Pre-professional programs are offered in physics, engineering, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, nursing and medical technology. Organizations sponsored by the department include the Meter and Liter Club for students of chemistry and Beta Beta Beta, recognition fraternity for outstanding biology students.

THE ACTIONS OF NATURE are bound by various laws which serve to guide our universe. These laws and their uses in today's science conscious world are the primary theme of the A-State physics classes.

Building Solid Citizenship Foundations

WITH RENOVATION PROGRESSING in the usual quarters of the Social Science Department, all regular classes were moved around campus like this one in the Stateroom.

To prepare the student for citizenship in today's complex society is the paramount goal of the Social Science Department. The department strives to give the student an understanding of the people of the world and their problems by delving into the anthropology of past and contemporary generations. Through the department, students prepare various vocations in the government, social work and in the public schools. Majors are offered in history, political science, home economics, social science and sociology. Organizations related to the Social Science Department include the Home Economics Club, International Relations Club, Sociology Club and the Social Science Club.

INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION can be provided to the student by the adviser when questions arise concerning scheduling, problems of curriculum or work in the classroom.

Department of Social Science

James E. Calloway Head of Social Science Department B.A., West. Kty. State; M.A., West. Kty. State; Ph.D., Indiana U.

A STUDY TOUR is offered each year to students interested in making the trip, The tour scheduled for this year plans a European itinerary.

Linda Catherine Wyatt, State College Jerry Dolph Young, Leachville GLENDA FRANKS is escorted to the bandstand by cadet battalion commander Stan Mortimer after Glenda had been announced as the new Honorary Cadet Colonel.

"Mood Indigo" was the theme of the '64 Military Ball held annually in the A-State armory. The ROTC Corps and guests daneed to the exciting music of the Si Zenter orchestra, one of the nation's best known dance bands. Color of different shades was used to carry out the theme of this year's gala event. The highlight of the Ball was the naming of the ROTC honorary eadet colonel, Miss Glenda Franks of Paragould and her staff. The Zenter orchestra was typical of the big-name bands which entertain at the formal dance. Outstanding music, beautiful decorations and of course many beautiful ASC women made this Military Ball one of the best ever held.

Campus police, Mr. Lonnie Paxton and Mr. Murlin Furr keep watch over the campus late at night while it sleeps.

Peter, Paul and Mary, nationally famous folk singing trio were part of the SGA's spring entertainment.

Hapless grid opponent changes course to avoid a brick wall (Ken Mashburn and Truman Moore).

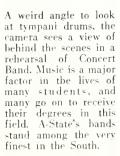

World's heavyweight champion wrestler, Lou Thesz is in desperate straits as Joel Gambill and Bill Winter, flyweight champs, close in.

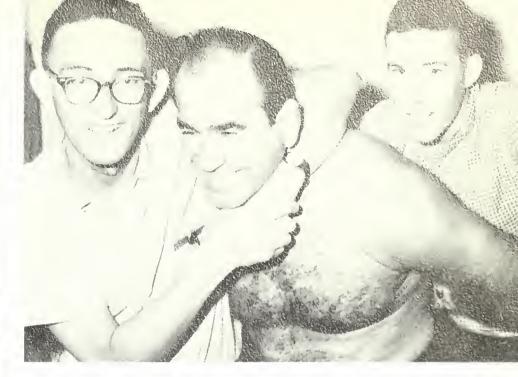

She's sharp, but a little hard to talk to, Blue

Shown on the right is Randy Ishmael and Frances Farabee, winners of the R. E. Lee Wilson award for outstanding citizenship during their entire four years at A-State. The award was given at the annual Honors Day program held at the end of last year.

"Ooooh, these 8:00 o'clock classes!"—The dairy barn cat.

A-State's Animals

This shot of the longhorn was taken, needless to say, in a heck of a hurry.

"This cafeteria line gets longer every time I come down here!"—The beef barn cattle muster an intelligent stare for the photographer.

The friends of this feathered friend are not happy at the prospect of a new Fine Arts building in the near future.

This fine gentleman gained his fame by posing for the U.S. Mint.

"Okay, okay—I invented the 'Dog'"—Mrs. McPike's mascot owns up.

A Mr. C. Darwin suggested that we include a picture of this fellow in our animal section.

Last-Page Meditations

The last day of trial by fire is past! We have met the enemy and walked away again. Having been duly and cruelly initiated into the circle of the hardened souls who worry, who must do battle with the calendar and the clock, we feel that our warped little remarks can now be fittingly included in the ranks of those who think they have something to say. Yes, a little knowledge is a dangerous thing, and having precious little, we can hardly resist the temptation to comment on what the year has meant to us.

We owe untold gratitude to this year's yearbook advisor, Tom Manning, for a great job of getting us on the right track from the start, and keeping our noses to the grindstone. Without his ability to get production out of spring fever-ridden editors and copywriters, there would be no '61-Indian.

(Editor's Note—I am very grateful to have had a very enthusiastic, experienced person to serve as my assistant editor. Jim Pardew was the best right-hand man an editor could have had. With his capable aid, we almost made good our predictions of no all-night work this year . . . the last night of the last deadline being the only sad exception. He has superior writing ability and tremendous feel for getting the job done, and I add my good wishes to a future which I feel is assured for him in this field.)

Our sincere thanks to Janis Goldsmith, who has now completed two solid years as head class editor, as well as general authority on how to do something in a hurry and still do it right. She was, during both years, a mainstay when there was two weeks work to do in two nights, as is the case with annuals.

A newcomer this year, but hardly new to the work was Judy Shannon, who served as layout editor. She was the editor of Little Rock Central's All-American yearbook last year, and we were proud to have her wit and creativeness among us.

Our several associate class editors rate a hearty thanks for their part in making this book what it is. Barbara Meyers, LaRaye Brown. Carole Wagner, and Jane Cato were very generous of their free time to draw extra layouts, sort pictures and many other assorted duties. They were the backbone without which we would have been lost.

Copywriters Sharon Baker, Glenda Daniel and Cathy Smart have written their own tribute in this year's book as the copy of our feature sections. We will best remember them for certain humorous satires in copy which would have been a real hit with the open-minded, but which would probably have gotten the editors tarred and feathered. Their serious contributions, however, were greatly appreciated and highly necessary.

Linda Nein is to be commended on her job as art cditor. She always came through on usually very short notice. Charlie Wiles and John Ulmer, chief sports editors gave real personality to that section of the book which is a real headache to the inexperienced. The have done a fine job on a very difficu section.

No yearbook can exist without som thing to show as well as read, and Ph Pickle and Bill Winter have given to what we wanted — pictures which would be proud to display anywher. Their professional ability has been strained greatly this year, and still the continue to produce. They cannot realize how much this means to struggling editors.

This year is almost over now . . . but there will always be another year, an other year-book to be printed and another editor to watch and worry, alway fearing that this deadline won't be me or that piece of copy won't fit in a certain tiny little space allotted for it.

I now take this opportunity to wish fo the next editor and all who follow hin the kind of luck I had in finding the people who would give unselfishly of themselves for the betterment of the book, and of the school itself.

There will be many things I remember about Arkansas State in later life, bur probably the most remembered, most appreciated thing will be the people who made this writing possible . . those who knew what needed to be done and were not afraid to work to accomplish it. These people have already learned a lesson in life which will carry them long after the year 1964 has faded into the past.
